You work hard
for your family.

💰 Did you know? 💰
You can get up to $6900
if you have children and worked last year

Even if you have no other filing requirements or owe no tax, you can still get EITC!

You earned
this credit.

Taxes are due in April, but you can file late or amend your taxes and get your credit!

Frequently Asked Questions

According to the IRS, all people eligible for EITC have seven things in common:

- Have earned income.
- Have a valid Social Security number.
- Do not file as a married filing separately.
- Generally, are not an undocumented person.
- Are not a qualifying child of another person.
- Are not filing Form 2555 or Form 2555-EZ. (7) Have limited investment income.

Does my income qualify?

You must have income from your employer or someone else, work for yourself, a business or farm you own or operate, or some disability plan to qualify.

You also have to meet income limits to qualify for the EITC. Those limits depend on your filing status and how many qualifying children under age 19 or full-time students under age 24. Here are 2022's EITC income limits:

	Filing Status	Income Limit if No Children	Income Limit if 1 Child	Income Limit if 2 Children	Income Limit if 3+ Children
Income Qualifications For EITC	Single, head of household, or widowed	$16,480	$43,492	$49,399	$53,057
	Married, joint	$22,610	$49,622	$55,529	$59,187

DATA SOURCE: IRS. NOTE: THE EITC IS NOT AVAILABLE TO THOSE WHO ARE MARRIED AND FILE SEPARATELY.

Does my child qualify?

- Your child must have the same main home as you (or your spouse if you file jointly) in the United States for more than half of the year.
- Your child must be younger than you (or your spouse filing jointly) and must be under age 19 (age 24 if your child is a "full-time student) at the end of the year or is "permanently and totally disabled."
- Your child must not have filed a joint return, or if your child filed a joint return, your child and their spouse filed only to claim a refund of withheld estimated taxes and were not otherwise required to file.
- Your child must be your son, daughter, adopted child, stepchild, "eligible foster child," brother, sister, half-brother, half-sister, stepbrother, stepsister, or a descendant of any of them.

Who is an eligible foster child?

A foster child is considered eligible if they are placed with you by an authorized placement agency or by judgment decree, or other order of any court of competent jurisdiction.
